

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The SMPSP and DigitalFusion present:

“A Single Frame”
Select Images from the Society of Motion Picture Still Photographers

On view at DigitalFusion, 3535 Hayden Avenue, Culver City, CA 90232
October 6, 2018 through Fall, 2019

9/01/2018- The SMPSP in conjunction with DigitalFusion is pleased to announce an exhibition of images shot by unit still photographers on productions around the world. “A Single Frame” spans nearly 50 years and offers a glimpse on set and behind the scenes on films such as “Jaws” (1977), “Goodfellas” (1990), “Mad Max: Fury Road” (2015) and “Hidden Figures” (2016), among many others. Featured are such cinema icons as Martin Scorsese, Jodie Foster, Charlize Theron, Dwayne Johnson and father-daughter Oscar winners Francis Ford Coppola and a young Sofia Coppola on the set of “Apocalypse Now.”

Curated by DF Studio’s Greg Dyro and produced along with the SMPSP’s exhibition committee, this striking exhibit of 42 images explores and honors the artistry and cultural importance of unit photography. The SMPSP and DigitalFusion thank Epson for their generous sponsorship of this exhibition.

About the Society of Motion Picture Still Photographers...

The SMPSP was founded in Los Angeles in 1995 as a non-profit honorary organization dedicated to the art of motion picture still photography. Today, the membership includes a global roster shooting on set from LA to Rio, from Warsaw to Tehran. They share an interest in promoting the archival preservation of unit still photography and raising awareness of its intrinsic value. The organization also provides a forum for its members to exchange ideas and to examine the issues facing photographers today.
